MEXICO: PROTECT JOURNALISTS AND ENSURE ALBERTO AMARO'S SECURITY

Mexico is the Western Hemisphere's most dangerous country for journalists, according to extensive documentation by Committee to Protect Journalists. Since 2019, Alberto Amaro Jordan, a 35-year-old Mexican journalist has been attacked, threatened, and arrested by police officers and intimidated by members of organized crime groups. Despite this, officials from Mexico's Mechanism for the Protection of Human Rights Defenders and Journalists have questioned his claims and even attempted to withdraw Amaro's protective measures. I urge you to immediately reassess Alberto Amaro's security situation in consultation with him.
